SUSAN DANZIGER

Susan Danziger is the CEO of DailyLit (www.dailylit.com), which is the leading publisher of serialized books in digital form. DailyLit currently features over 1000 classic and contemporary books available for free or for a small fee. Short book installments are sent via e-mail or RSS feed and arrive in a reader's inbox, and can then be read on a desktop, laptop or mobile device (including an iPhone or Blackberry) according to the schedule set by each reader. DailyLit's titles include bestselling and award-winning titles, from literary fiction and romance to language learning and science fiction.

Danziger brings over 15 years of publishing and licensing experience to DailyLit. She was the head of Business Affairs for one of the divisions at Random House and also joined a team to spearhead Random House's digital book program.

Danziger graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Cornell University where she studied Comparative Literature and Art History. She also received her J.D. from New York University School of Law.
